Reflections on Chanukah

As Jews commemorate the epic victory of the Maccabees over Antiochus - actually the victory of Judaism over Hellenism - it is worth considering the constant struggle which is still being waged - and which could easily still be lost - against the inroads among Jews of non-Jewish thought. In our joyful emphasis upon the victory of the Maccabees we are too prone to forget that notwithstanding the limited victory won by the Hasmoneans, Hellenism captured the minds and the imaginations of hundreds of thousands of Jews - in Egypt, in Greece and indeed in all parts of the world. These Jews lost their identity among the non-Jews whom they imitated and they became easy and willing converts to Christianity.

The tendency among minorities is to follow the customs and ideals of the majority among whom these minorities live. Undoubtedly a considerable share of the importance which has been attached to the festival of Chanukah in recent years has been the result of the proximity of Christmas and the need to offer a Jewish counterpart to the growing influence which this Christian festival exerts upon Jewish children.

But there is no need for Jews to develop out of Chanukah a sort of synthesis between the Jewish holiday and Christmas. Chanukah, celebrated as a Jewish Feast of Rededication, is so rich in tradition, so colourful in its external manifestations, so perfectly developed to appeal to children that we should devote ourselves to emphasizing the joys of Chanukah and just leave to the Christians the Christmas celebration, so full of meaning to them.

As Jews take pride in the achievements of the Maccabees and the great victories of the spirit which they won, we would do well to remember that we, too, are engaged in a crucial battle for survival. Our present enemy, and we recognize full well the current climate of anti-Semitism, is not an external enemy. Ours is an enemy within which bids us to yield up our Jewish heritage to the Moloch of acquiescence thereby diluting our Jewishness with the pabulum of conformity. Only if we resist the temptation to avoid the obligations which living as Jews impose on us and instead follow in the footsteps of those dedicated Jewish leaders of the past who created the matrix by which Jewish life has been shaped, will we measure up to the example set by the Maccabees in their heroic struggle which we commemorate in the Chanukah festival.

Religious Leaders Should Know Better

One would think that a rabbi and an archbishop would know better than to compare COVID restrictions and inaction on climate change to the 1930s in Germany. Apparently not.

Rabbi Tamarah Benima, a 71-year-old Reform rabbi at Amsterdam's modern progressive Beit Ha'Chidush synagogue, acknowledged that politicians, scientists and doctors dictating COVID-19 public health measures may "have the best intentions." 'But as a Jew', she added, "what happened in Nazi Germany is a warning to me. Those in power all had the best intentions. Also, when they declared Jews a danger to 'public health'. Also when they declared a war against the 'virus' of those times. So don't play with fire by setting aside people in our society as a 'danger to public health.'"

Jewish groups were quick to condemn the controversial rabbi's comments. The Central Jewish Board of the Netherlands, the country's largest Jewish umbrella group, said her comparison is "contrary to our values and shows a complete lack of realism." The Netherlands Association for Progressive Judaism "strongly rejects the irresponsible and offensive comparisons," the group said in a statement.

Then there are the comments by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Welby. Welby told a BBC audience that failure to tackle climate change could be "possibly more disastrous than the warnings about the Nazis in the 1930s. The current leaders will be cursed they don't act." When asked about his use of the word "cursed" Welby responded: "It was consciously a strong word. It will be: people will speak of them in far stronger terms than we speak today of the politicians of the 30s, this will kill people all around the world for generations...It will allow genocide on an infinitely larger scale."

At least Welby had

JOURNALISTS AND HISTORIANS HID COMMENTS ABOUT JEWS BY FDR AND TRUMAN

By RAFAEL MEDOFF

Controversy has erupted over the admission by journalist Katie Couric that she doctored her 2016 interview with Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, in order to “protect” Ginsburg from criticism of her opposition to athletes kneeling during the national anthem.

Couric joins a growing list of authors who have altered the unflattering words of individuals whom they admire, in order to shield them from embarrassment. Presidents Harry

S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt have been among the prime beneficiaries of such unilateral revising of history.

One instance involving Roosevelt concerns remarks he made in a very private meeting on January 22, 1938, with Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, the foremost American Jewish leader of that era. The only source for what they discussed is a memorandum that Wise dictated shortly afterwards, for his private records.

According to historians Richard Breitman and Allan J. Lichtman, in their 2013 book, FDR and the Jews, the topic of the conversation was Palestine. Roosevelt believed the country was incapable of absorbing many more Jewish immigrants, so he urged Wise to look for “some large areas [elsewhere in the world] as a second choice for the Jews.” Wise disagreed and “parried” with FDR about Palestine, Breitman and Lichtman wrote, citing Wise’s memorandum.

But Breitman and Lichtman omitted another part of the conversation, in

LIFE AND LEGACY - ENSURING OUR FUTURE

LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS BENEFIT FROM JCF LIFE & LEGACY PARTNERSHIP

By MIKE COHEN

Life and Legacy is a partnership between Federation CJA, the Jewish Community Foundation (JCF) of Montreal and the Harold Grinspoon Foundation (HGF) that promotes after-lifetime giving to benefit the Montreal community. With Life and Legacy, participants can ensure a vibrant Jewish life for future generations in Montreal.

Participants are those whose lives have been rooted in experiences connecting them to the Jewish community. These individuals already support Jewish charitable organizations, but now they have an opportunity to include them in their will or estate plan. By leaving a legacy gift, they ensure the values and services of the Jewish organizations they care deeply about will be part of the community long into the future.

By making a legacy commitment, participants can:

Pass on the values instilled by their parents and grandparents to future generations.

Perpetuate the Jewish traditions and rituals they cherish in the community.

Preserve the programs and organizations that support Jewish life in Montreal.

The estimated number of future gifts stands at $19.4 million based on 271 signed letters of intent.

Participating organizations are Auberge Shalom pour femmes, Azrieli Schools Talmud Torah/Herzliah, Camp B'nai Brith, Congregation Beth Tikvah, Congregation Dorshei Emet, Congregation Shaar Hashomayim, Federation CJA, Friendship Circle Hebrew Foundation School, Jewish Public Library, Segal Centre for Performing Arts,

THE MAN WITH 4000 DREIDELS

ARTHUR KURZWEIL HAS BEEN WRITING BOOKS about various aspects of Jewish life for decades, among them, "Torah for Dummies". But he is also known for his passionate interest in Jewish genealogy and particularly his research into his own family's lineage. Among the treasures which sit in his Long Island home are 4000 dreidels, collected by Eastern European treasure hunters. "I look at them", says Kurzweil, "and I think, what's the history of this? And when's the last time somebody played that game?" "I wonder what this person's fate ultimately was". Photo Shira Hanau

Greek Court Rules Against Kosher Slaughter

Last year the European Union’s highest court upheld the bans imposed in parts of Belgian against slaughtering animals for meat without first stunning them. The European Jewish Association warned about the “downstream consequences that the European court of Justice ruling carried with it” and now those fears have become reality.

The highest court in Greece has ruled against allowing ritual slaughter. The court said that the country must find ways to meet the demands of animal rights advocates and the needs of Jews (and Muslims) to follow their traditions. “The government should regulate the issue of slaughtering animals in the context of worship in such a way as to ensure both the protection of animals from any inconvenience during slaughter and the religious freedom of Muslims and Jews living in Greece”, the court said.

Rabbi Menachem Margolin, chairman of the EJA, said that “what we are witnessing is first-rate hypocrisy. When it comes to antisemitism, governments and institutions rightly stand behind us. But when our beliefs and customs are attacked they are nowhere to be seen.”

Leaving a legacy is simple. Some options include: Bequest in a will; Gift of life insurance; Gift of cash or assets; and a Charitable Remainder Trust.

Milan Bratin, the Life and Legacy Chair at Friendship Circle, had nothing but good things to say about the program. "This process has given us the ability and incentive to reach out to present-day donors and ask them to look further down the line," he said. "We started off with our Board members, who all made pledges. We especially appreciate the support we get from the Jewish Community Foundation who will approach and work out particulars with donors we identify."

Kimberley Tepperman, Director of Development for the Jewish Public Library, credits the program for providing training and helping them develop a new mindset around the importance and the power of legacy giving. "The Harold Grinspoon Foundation's Life & Legacy Program has been instrumental in providing the JPL with the tools to cultivate legacy gifts," she said. "At the library, we see legacy giving as one of the most important elements in building long-term financial sustainability. Through training, materials and advice we have learned how to speak with those most committed to the library about what is often seen as a very personal subject and show them how legacy giving gives them the chance to share their values with the next generation."

Monica Mendel Bensoussan, Director of Development of Les écoles Azrieli, Talmud Torah|Herzliah stated: "The Harold Grinspoon Life and Legacy Program has had a profound impact on the way we, at Talmud Torah|Herzliah, think about giving and the manner in which we view our donors. Traditionally, fundraising has focused on the here and now, with the emphasis clearly on reaching annual campaign budget targets. Little thought had been given to fundraising as a key to sustainability of our beloved school system."

"The Life and Legacy Program provided a critical impetus for our professionals to make an important strategic shift in our fundraising practices," Bensoussan stressed. "While we continue our efforts for successful annual campaigns our fundraising strategies now include important considerations for tomorrow-- for the generations of Talmud Torah|Herzliah students. For over one hundred and twenty five years, Talmud Torah|Herzliah has proudly been inspiring academic excellence, encouraging personal growth and developing strong Jewish identity in our students. While we always understood our responsibility to ensure the continuity of this tradition, which has served the Montreal Jewish community so well, we now have a new and effective tool to help us achieve our goals -- Legacy giving."

"The Life and Legacy Program has inspired us to learn more about our donors and about the reasons they support our mission. Through conversations with our loyal donors, we have come to realize that they too want to see a bright Jewish future for generations of Talmud Torah|Herzliah students. They too are eager to ensure that the school continues to thrive for years to come, supporting generations of Jewish youth on their journeys to becoming the creative and innovative Jewish leaders of tomorrow. which the president blamed Poland's Jews for the rising antisemitism in that country. According to the full text of the Wise memo, FDR claimed that “the Jewish grain dealer and the Jewish shoe dealer and the Jewish shopkeeper” had been undercutting Polish Christian merchants, and it was this alleged Jewish financial subterfuge that was provoking Christian shopkeepers to demand that

According to the memo, Wise protested, “But, Chief, this is pure Fascist talk”—a surprisingly blunt remark, considering that Wise was a passionate supporter of President Roosevelt and his administration. But Wise's plea had no impact on the president. He wrote that Roosevelt's remarks were “very painful” and “like a blow in the face.” Readers of the Breitman-

Lichtman book, like readers of Katie Couric's interview with Justice Ginsburg, had no way of knowing what had been omitted.

President Roosevelt's image has also benefitted from another troubling omission, this one courtesy of the State Department. At the Yalta Conference, in February 1945, Roosevelt mentioned to Josef Stalin that he would soon be seeing Saudi Arabia's king, Ibn Saud. Stalin asked if FDR intended to make any concessions to Saud. According to the transcript, "The President replied that there was only one concession he thought he might offer and that was to give him the six million Jews in the United States."

But when the State Department published the transcript in 1955, Roosevelt's unpleasant remark about Jews was omitted. More than fifty years later, a researcher discovered that then-Assistant Secretary of State Walter

Bedell Smith had crossed out the comment about Jews prior to publication, and had written in the margin: "Delete this--it is not pertinent history."

Censors have also lent a helping hand to FDR's successor. In a 1945 memo, President Harry S. Truman wrote: "The Jews claim God Almighty picked 'em out for special privilege. Well I'm sure he had better judgement. Fact is I never thought God picked any favorites. It is my studied opinion that any race, creed or color can be God's favorites if they act the part--and very few of 'em do that."

The most unflattering words in that passage ended up on the cutting-room floor. Journalist William Hillman was hired to assist Truman in preparing his memoirs and other papers for publication. The first volume, Mr. President, appeared in 1953. It included the 1945 memorandum, but the wording was changed to read: "I never thought God picked any favorites. It is my studied opinion that any race, creed or color can be God's favorites if they act the part--and very few of 'em do that." The reference to Jews was omitted, presumably to protect the former president's reputation. Hillman never revealed whether it was his idea, or Truman's, to rewrite the historical record.

Katie Couric, to her credit, has belatedly admitted what she did. Unfortunately, others who have done likewise have not been forthcoming about their own historical malpractice. It's time that changed.

WORLD IN REVIEW

from their shelves. Online bookseller Walmart has also stopped selling the book.

"We assume these large online booksellers do not mass-market books promoting terrorism or pedophilia," said Rabbi Abraham Cooper, SWC associate dean and global social action director. "At a time of surging antisemitic hate crimes here in the US, it is beyond the pale that a book would be marketed by someone who insults the memory of six million Jewish victims of the Nazi genocide."

In addition to "Not Guilty at Nuremberg, other books removed include the novel "The Auschwitz Myth – Legend or Reality?", by Wilhelm Stäglich, a former officer in the German army during World War II and a neo-Nazi party member, and Germar Rudolf's "A Censorship is Taking Place!", written to protest German authorities' ban on his anti-semitism and Holocaust denial, and "What is Truth?", by the French Communist Paul Rassinier, one of the earliest Holocaust deniers.

Minneapolis Jewish Mayor Wins Again

Jacob Frey won reelection as mayor of Minneapolis. Frey's opposition to replacing the city's police department with a Department of Public Safety resonated with voters. Frey is a Reform Jew and attends two Reform synagogues in Minneapolis, Temple Israel and Shir Tikvah, together with his wife, who converted.

A TRIBUTE TO THE COMICS WHO SHAPED NORTH AMERICA

In 1978, Time magazine estimated that around 80 percent of professional American comics were Jewish, and Jewish humour remains a foundation stone of modern popular culture. This book is not intended as a definitive tome but is instead a delightful and irreverent celebration of great photography and some of the ultimate one-liners of the 20th century, ripe in satire, anecdote, self-deprecation and irony.

The book shines a light on those who have dominated the comedy scene and brought joy to so many throughout their lives. Featuring a heartfelt and informative introduction by stand-up comedian Bobby Slayton, and a wonderful selection of one-liners and images edited by Tony Nourmand, this book offers a beautiful insight into the life and humour of the world's foremost Jewish comedians throughout the ages.

Featuring comedians including Larry David, Fran Lebowitz, Mel Brooks, Bette Midler, Garry Shandling, Buddy Hackett, Sid Caesar, Jackie Mason, Gilda Radner, Groucho Marx, Lenny Bruce, Rita Rudner, Rodney Dangerfield, Joan Rivers, Jerry Lewis, and George Burns, the book's wonderful portraits are accompanied by some of the finest and funniest observations.

The book is published in conjunction with the exhibition of Jewish Comedians at La Térmica Cultural Centre in Málaga, Spain, in November 2021. It is the first in a series of exhibitions and books celebrating Jewish culture in the arts. The series is produced and curated in collaboration with Reel Art Press.

The book is available at bookstores and at <https://www.reelartpress.com/catalog/edition/219/a-small-book-of-jewish-comedians>

Elementary School Registration

emsb.qc.ca/reserve

If you wish to enrol your child for the first time at the EMSB, please go to the school nearest your home and register. You may choose from a French Extended (Bilingual or Immersion – depending on what your local school offers) or an English Core Program.

For more information about which EMSB school your child can attend and whether he or she qualifies for transportation and English education, please call 514-483-7200 or your local EMSB school. (Use the School Search link at emsb.qc.ca)

All students registering for the first time are required to provide a birth certificate, proof of citizenship of the parent whose education is used to prove eligibility, a medicare card and vaccination records to the school the child will be attending. Parents will be asked to fill out forms which will allow the school to apply for the certificate of eligibility for English schooling.

Please note that as a result of language legislation, this criteria excludes studies completed in the Quebec Private School system.
